

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

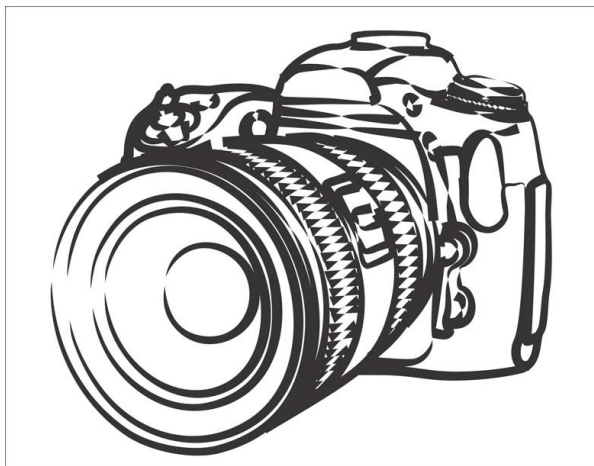

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's find out how the long-distance relationship is working out!

Learning Outcome

Exchange information about unlikely events or fairly certain conditions that will be fulfilled in the present, past or future in spoken or written texts and in work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about people's personalities, love and marriage.
- I can express uncertainty about past events.
- I can talk about two actions together.

Ask your partner:

- When you are traveling, how do you communicate with your friends and family?
- Do you prefer to talk, text or e-mail? Explain your choice.

Let's Explore!

Sari and Tony stay in touch.

* To stay "in touch" means to maintain contact by speaking or sending messages.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Sari's boyfriend, Tony, was a photographer who often traveled to exotic locations for work. Sari detested Tony's constant traveling. She objected to his disappearing for days at a time with little to no contact, but she put up with it out of devotion. Every week she would wait eagerly for his phone call, but he didn't always catch her at home. Sari's roommate, Louise, got used to taking very detailed messages. Louise disliked their putting her in the middle of the relationship, but she conscientiously recorded the messages regardless.

One time, Sari came home from work and saw that Tony had called. She resented his having left another message, but of course she was pleased to receive an update.

"Louise, when did Tony call?" Sari asked.

"He called at about 4:30. He said he would call back later," Louise replied.

"Did he give you an update?" Sari asked.

"He said that he may have lost his passport in the Amazon jungle, and that he would have to go back to the field site to locate it. He mentioned that one of the more enterprising assistants might have found it and stored it for him. However he did add that it may have been lost for good, in which case he would have to stay a few extra weeks in the region," Louise said.

"Did he say how he was?" Sari asked.

"Yes. He said that he was fine despite the complications, and that the rainforest was really stunning. He said that he might have even taken some award-caliber pictures," Louise answered.

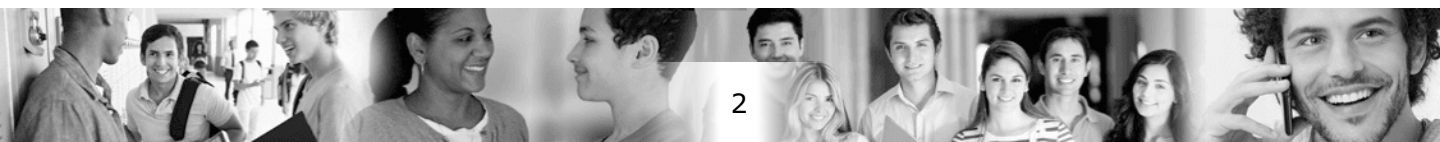

"Did he say when he was coming back?" Sari asked.

"He said that he might have been able to catch a flight in early August, but because of the delay, it might be more like September," Louise said.

About an hour later, Tony himself called. This time, Sari answered.

"Sari, I have so much to tell you!" he said.

"Oh, I heard it all from Louise already," she answered. "Everything is the same here. Um, I guess I'll speak to you next week. Bye!"

Let's Practice!

Are Sari and Toni a good match?

Instructions: Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. Sari detested Tony's constant traveling.
2. She objected to his disappearing for days at a time with little to no contact, but she put up with it out of devotion.
3. Louise disliked their putting her in the middle of the relationship, but she conscientiously recorded the messages regardless.
4. She resented his having left another message, but of course she was pleased to receive an update.

Let's Practice!

Tony travels a lot!

Instructions: Unscramble the words in order to find the mystery sentences. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. Tony / for / work. / locations / to / exotic / traveled

2. She / devotion. / of / put / it / up / out / with

3. regardless. / recorded / the / conscientiously / messages / She

4. enterprising / Sari / thought. / was / we / than / more

Extension Activity

Take a telephone message.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Ask a partner to give you a recap of his or her activities over the course of the previous weekend over the phone.
- Take notes in point form.
- Switch partners and relate your first partner's activities to your new partner.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I listen to my partner.

☐ ☐

I take notes on what my partner did.

☐ ☐

I relate a message to a third person.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- eagerly (adverb): with desire and interest
e.g. Every week she would wait eagerly for his phone call, but he didn't always catch her at home.
- devotion (noun): love, loyalty, or enthusiasm for a person, activity, or cause e.g. She objected to his disappearing for days at a time with little to no contact, but she put up with it out of devotion.
- conscientiously (adverb): carefully
e.g. She conscientiously recorded the messages regardless.
- enterprising (adjective): having or showing initiative and resourcefulness
e.g. He mentioned that one of the more enterprising assistants might have found it and stored it for him.
- caliber (noun): the quality of someone's character or the level of someone's ability e.g. He said that he might have even taken some award-caliber pictures.

Learning Points

Perfect Modals: May/Might Have

When you want to express uncertainty about the past, you can use Perfect modals. This is a way for you to speculate about a reason for something else happening.

You use may have or might have + past participle to express a weak possibility in the past.

For example: I don't know where I lost my wallet. I may have lost it on the train or I might have dropped it on the bus. I really have no idea.

Examples:

- He said that he may have lost his passport in the Amazon jungle.
- He mentioned that one of the more enterprising assistants might have found it and stored it for him.
- However, he did add that it may have been lost for good.
- He said that he might have even taken some award-caliber pictures.
- He said that he might have been able to catch a flight in early August, but that because of the delay it might be more like September.

Clauses Using -ing with Objects or Possessives

Let's look at some more variations on the structure of clauses.

You can use an object + -ing or a possessive + -ing after some verbs.

For example:

I resented Sheila receiving a raise.

I resented Sheila's receiving a raise.

When you use a possessive + ing, it sounds much more formal than the object + ing. You only use the possessive form to talk about a person or a group of people. You cannot use it with animals or things.

Other verbs you can use in this structure are: detest, approve, disapprove, like, dislike, hate, love, object to, forget, imagine, and remember.

Examples:

- Sari detested Tom's constant traveling.
- She objected to his disappearing for days at time with little to no contact.
- Louise disliked their putting her in the middle of the relationship.
- She resented his having left another message, but of course she was pleased to receive an update.

