

Instructor: ..... Date: .....

Learner: ..... Regional Branch: .....

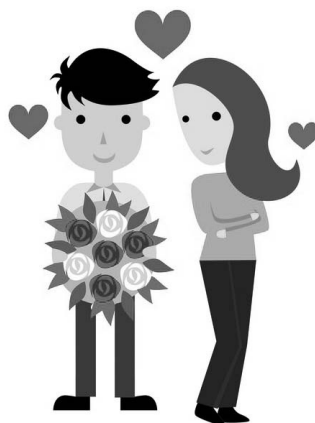

Program: ..... Center: .....

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's find out what a matchmaker does!

Learning Outcome

Exchange information about unlikely events or fairly certain conditions that will be fulfilled in the present, past or future in spoken or written texts and in work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about people's personalities, love and marriage.
- I can express uncertainty about past events.
- I can talk about two actions together.

Ask your partner:

- What personality traits do you consider to be the most important in a friend?
- Do you consider yourself to be shy or outgoing? Explain your answer.

Let's Explore!

Matchmaker, matchmaker make me a match*.

* "Matchmaker, matchmaker make me a match" is a line from the play Fiddler on the Roof.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Margaret Vanderkamp, the founder of Connect Dating Service (CDS), discourages people from referring to her as a matchmaker. "I think of myself as a connector," she says. "I just try to help people who find it a little difficult to meet that special someone." Margaret says that she was always fascinated by what men and women find attractive about each other. "People assume that I can't have always been interested in matchmaking, but even in college, I could just tell when two friends were meant for each other," says Margaret. "I think I was born with a special gift to recognize that invisible chemistry that exists between men and women. It's something intuitive." Margaret says that most people have never heard of anyone owning a matchmaking business.

How does one begin a matchmaking service? they always ask. It can't have been easy. But Margaret explains that before she opened CDS in her basement, she had already introduced many of her friends and relatives to their present spouses. "People were always impressed with my knack for bringing people together," she says. "This can't have been the first time you've done this," they'd always say. Eventually I decided that if I was going to be doing it anyway, I might as well make some money from it."

Margaret says that the secret to matchmaking is listening to her clients' souls. "I have to concentrate when I'm interviewing a client. Truthfulness is important. The information they've given me can't have been invented or embellished," Margaret continues. "I insist on conducting the interviews myself, and I start by telling them that they need to communicate with me openly. Many tell me that they feel all alone in the world with no one to help them. I try to convince them that there's a solution to loneliness."

Margaret says that her most important message is that people should feel positive about their potential. "They must be filled with hope. They must be optimistic that they'll find someone with whom to share their lives."

Let's Practice!

Margaret lives as a matchmaker.

Instructions: Complete the sentences. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. People assume that I can't have always _____ being a matchmaker.
a. enjoyed
b. enjoying
c. enjoy
2. It can't _____ been easy.
a. had
b. has
c. have
3. You _____ done this all without some help.
a. can't have
b. can't had
c. can have
4. They can't have _____ or embellished their information.
a. invented
b. be invent
c. been inventing
5. You can't _____ to the entire story.
a. have listened
b. has listened
c. have listed

Let's Practice!

Margaret talks about her dating site.

Instructions: Classify the sentences below by placing them into the right category. Write the number corresponding to each sentence in the right category. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. Many tell me that they feel all alone in the world with no one to help them.
2. I start by telling them that they need to communicate with me openly.
3. Margaret Vanderkamp, the founder of Connect Dating Service (CDS), discourages.
4. people from referring to her as a matchmaker.
5. I insist on conducting the interviews myself.
6. I decided that if I was going to be doing it anyway, I might as well make some money from it.

| Sentences with a preposition followed by a verb |
|-------------------------------------------------|
|                                                 |

| Other |
|-------|
|       |

Extension Activity

Match the words with the definitions.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Search the Internet for vocabulary to describe personality.
- Make a list of at least twenty new and challenging words.
- On a separate piece of paper, write a definition for each word.
- Cut out each word and definition and mix them up.
- Ask a partner to try to match each word with each definition.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I research vocabulary of personality.

☐ ☐

I write definitions for new words.

☐ ☐

I challenge a partner to match the words with the definitions.

☐ ☐

I review and correct my partner's word/definition matches.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- special someone (noun): the perfect mate
e.g. I just try to help people who find it a little difficult to meet that special someone.
- chemistry (noun): emotional or psychological interaction between two people e.g. I think I was born with a special gift to recognize that invisible chemistry.
- intuitive (adjective): based on feelings rather than facts
e.g. It's something intuitive.
- spouse (noun): husband or wife
e.g. She had already introduced many of her own friends and relatives to their present spouses.
- truthfulness (noun): honesty
e.g. Truthfulness is important.
- to embellish (verb): to make something better by adding to it e.g. The information they've given me can't have been invented or embellished.
- loneliness (noun): the state of being lonely
e.g. I try to convince them that there's a solution to loneliness.

Learning Points

Perfect Modals: Can't Have

You can use perfect modals (modal + have + past participle) to talk about uncertainty in the past.

You use can't have + past participle to show that you are almost sure that something did not happen in the past. You use it to talk about impossibilities.

For example:

She can't have forgotten to invite you - you are her best friend!

You can't have seen him at the movies - he is in the hospital.

Examples:

- People assume that I can't have always been interested in matchmaking.
- It can't have been easy.
- This can't have been the first time you've done this.
- The information they've given me can't have been invented or embellished.

Learning Points

Clauses Using -ing: Preposition + -ing

You can use prepositions and a gerund after some verbs. There are certain patterns to keep in mind, depending on the verb and which preposition you use.

Look at the chart for an outline of what verbs you can use with different prepositions:

| Preposition                                   | Verbs                                            | Example                                                                  |
|-----------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| by + -ing                              | begin, close, end, finish (up/off), open, start  | Can you end by saying that you wish everyone a Merry Christmas?   |
| on + -ingon + object + -ing | concentrate, count, depend, focus, insist, rely  | My mother insisted on (me) wearing a dress to the party.          |
| of + -ingof + object + -ing | approve, hear, know, speak, talk, tell           | Have you ever heard of (anyone you know) getting arrested before? |
| object + from + -ing                   | deter, discourage, keep, prevent, stop, prohibit | The party next door prevented me from going to sleep early.       |

Examples:

- Margaret Vanderkamp discourages people from referring to her as a matchmaker.
- Margaret says that most people have never heard of anyone owning a matchmaking business.
- I insist on conducting the interviews myself.
- I start by telling them that they need to communicate with me openly.

