

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

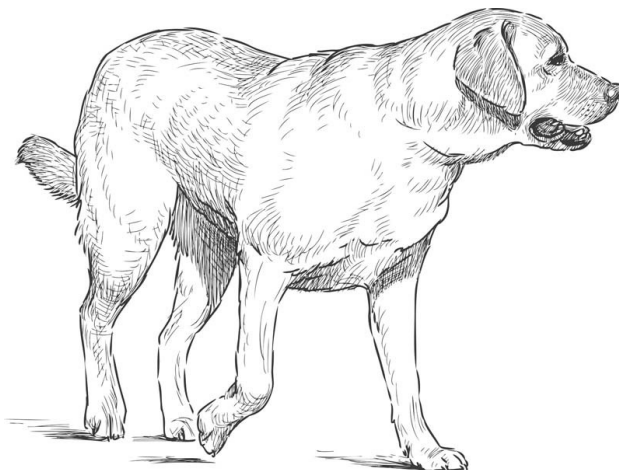

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's find out how the dog obsession started.

Learning Outcome

Exchange information about unlikely events or fairly certain conditions that will be fulfilled in the present, past or future in spoken or written texts and in work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about relationships and character traits.
- I can talk about two actions together.
- I can specify the type of function of a statement.

Ask your partner:

- What breed of dog is your favorite? Least favorite?
- Have you ever owned a dog? Would you like to own one in the future? Why or why not?

Let's Explore!

Grandfather wraps up a few gifts for his granddaughter.

* To "wrap up" something means to cover it in paper.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

I have been a dog lover my whole life. What's not to love? Like humans they can be kindhearted and personable and at times cheeky and disobedient. Above all, though, they are devoted and loyal friends. If I'm being completely honest, I must admit that I am a little bit obsessed with our furry little canine friends. This obsession dates back to a Christmas that I spent at my grandfather's farm when I was eight. My grandfather had a good-natured golden retriever who insisted on licking my face whenever we arrived. This particular year, she had a litter of puppies. Being a dog lover, I begged my grandparents to give me one of them for Christmas. They told me that I was only eight, and suggested that I wait a few more years before asking for a dog.

On Christmas morning, my brother and I raced downstairs to open our presents. My brother went first. His gift was a brand new racing sled. Filled with anticipation, I tore my package open. It was a small red handkerchief. I acknowledged that I was more than a bit underwhelmed with my present, and honestly, I resented my brother getting a new sled. My grandfather noticed my long face, and he asked me if anything was wrong. I confessed to being a little bit jealous of my brother's gift. My grandfather insisted on being patient. "Good things come to those who wait," he said. "I guarantee that you will not be disappointed." I opened another gift. It was a small toy whistle. Again, I failed to hide my disappointment and again my grandfather told me to keep my chin up. "I promise that you won't be disappointed," he said. As we began opening our final gifts, I heard a small whimpering coming from my box. I ripped it open and looked inside. Staring up at me was an adorable little puppy. "He can wear the handkerchief around his neck," my grandfather said, smiling. "And when you want him to come, just blow the whistle."

Let's Practice!

Please, can I have a puppy?

Instructions: Unscramble the words in order to find the mystery sentences. Read the complete sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. for / me / . / to / one / my / give / grandparents / Christmas / begged / I

2. wait / more / few / a / They / years / suggested / I / that / .

3. acknowledge / underwhelmed / that / I / a / was / bit / . / than / more / I

4. that / be / you / will / guarantee / I / . / disappointed / not

5. that / will / I / you / like / promise / . / it

Let's Practice!

I love dogs!

Instructions: Read the dialogue on page 2 again. Tick the correct answers to the questions.

1. Dogs can be ...
 - a. kindhearted and cheeky.
 - b. fortunate and new.
 - c. more personable than humans.
2. He felt _____ before he opened his gifts.
 - a. disappointed
 - b. filled with anticipation
 - c. devoted and loyal
3. He heard _____ before opening the final gift.
 - a. whistling
 - b. whimpering
 - c. wailing

Extension Activity

Give your partner some advice.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Write down the words "music, film, restaurants, places to visit and TV shows" on a piece of paper.
- Ask your partner for a recommendation for each category (e.g. Could you recommend a good restaurant to try?)
- Make notes based on your partner's advice.
- Switch roles and give your partner a recommendation from each category (e.g. I suggest that you watch Breaking Bad.)

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I ask for advice and recommendations.

☐ ☐

I make notes based on advice I have received.

☐ ☐

I give suggestions.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- kindhearted (adjective): having a kind and sympathetic nature
e.g. Like humans they can be kindhearted and personable and at times cheeky and disobedient.
- personable (adjective): having a pleasing and attractive manner
e.g. Like humans they can be kindhearted and personable and at times cheeky and disobedient.
- cheeky (adjective): slightly rude or showing no respect, but often in a funny way
e.g. Like humans they can be kindhearted and personable and at times cheeky and disobedient.
- disobedient (adjective): refusing to obey rules or someone in authority
e.g. Like humans they can be kindhearted and personable and at times cheeky and disobedient.
- underwhelmed (adjective): feeling no excitement about or admiration for something or someone e.g. I acknowledge that I was more than a bit underwhelmed with my present.
- long face (expression): unhappy or disappointed expression e.g. My grandfather noticed my long face.
- to keep one's chin up (expression): remain cheerful in difficult circumstances
e.g. Again I failed to hide my disappointment and again my grandfather told me to keep my chin up.
- to whimper (verb): make a series of low, feeble sounds expressive of fear, pain, or discontent
e.g. I heard a small whimpering coming from my box.

Learning Points

Clauses using -ing - Review

There are varying structures you can use with clauses that contain -ing forms of verbs.

Refer to the chart for a summary of these structures:

-ing structure	Verbs you use	Example object + -ing or a possessive + -ing after some verbs	detest, approve, disapprove, like, dislike, hate, love, object to, forget, imagine, and remember	I resented Sandra receiving a raise. I resented Sandra's receiving a raise.
to + -ing after certain verbs to + noun phrase (to is a preposition)	adapt, confess, object, admit, adjust, look forward, own up, and resort	He admitted to taking the last cookie. They confessed to the crime.
Preposition + -ing
by + -ing	begin, close, end, finish (up/off), open, start	Can you end by saying that you wish everyone a Merry Christmas?
on + -ing on + object + -ing	concentrate, count, depend, focus, insist, rely	My mother insisted on (me) wearing a dress to the party.
of + -ing	approve, hear, know, speak, talk, tell	Have you ever heard of (anyone you know) getting arrested before?
object + from + -ing	deter, discourage, keep, prevent, stop, prohibit	The party next door prevented me from going to sleep early.

Examples:

- My grandfather had a good-natured golden retriever who insisted on licking my face whenever we arrived.
- I resented my brother getting a new sled.

Learning Points

- I confessed to being a little bit jealous of my brother's gift.
- My grandfather insisted on being patient.

Performative Verbs

Performative verbs are verbs which perform the action they describe. You use these verbs in the Simple Present tense.

Examples of these verbs are:

suggest, acknowledge, admit, advise, apologize, beg, confess, congratulate, declare, deny, forbid, guarantee, name, order, permit, predict, promise, refuse, remind, request, thank and warn.

For example:

I suggest you take the train into the city. Parking is too expensive.

They request that we read the contract very carefully before signing.

Some verbs (apologize, deny, guarantee, promise and suggest) have the same meaning in either the Simple Present or Present Continuous forms.

For example:

I don't deny taking the bag. / I'm not denying taking the bag.

You often use modals with performative verbs to make them more polite.

For example:

We would advise you not to take the bus at this time.

Examples:

- I must admit that I am a little bit obsessed with our furry little canine friends.
- I begged my grandparents to give me one of them for Christmas.
- They suggested that I wait a few more years before asking for a dog.
- I acknowledge that I was more than a bit underwhelmed with my present.
- I guarantee that you will not be disappointed.
- I promise that you won't be disappointed.

